

After a trend breaking, record high of 941 referrals in April, we began to fall into the well-established pattern of reduced summer referrals. However, in July we hit another record high, 761, or 71 more than last year.

During the two periods in which referrals were experiencing unprecedented increases, the ADP in Detention maintained averages well below capacity, or 188 for April and 182 for July. To date, in 2008, the ADP has not only maintained record lows, with an overall average of 189, but also with the steadiest trend line on record, with an average variable of plus or minus 5.2%, versus an overall annual average of 9.1% for the previous six years.
